

About Mike

Mike Rutten is a well-known name in the program-editors and AV producers business. He learned the craftsmanship from a veteran in the business, his father Will Rutten. Mike has been working since 1986 as a freelance ENG cameraman and developed himself into a self-directing craftsman who distinguishes himself by being multi employable in the industry. He has made many camera images of the Dutch Royal family and also worked in several warzones including Rwanda, the republic of Chechnya and Bosnia.

With his flexibility and experience in working under tough conditions he was able to build strong relationships with technically high-demanding directors.

Rutten is investing a vast amount of his revenue in the most advanced equipment available and by doing this he is able to meet the ongoing demand for top quality film material.
